

Wolvercote & Wytham Festival Music Night

Saturday 17th June 2017 at the Village Hall

The Jazz Kitchen

The Oxford Jazz kitchen has a monthly jam at the White Hart, Wolvercote but tonight will be entertaining us with some of their talented core members. Expect a fantastic jazz experience - nice!

Wolvercote Strollers

Are back again sensitively combining sweet harmonies and instrumental arrangement to a rich mix of music from folk to popular classics. Here to wow the Wolvercote summer Festival with their lively and lovely sounds.

The Ponderosa

Usually a four-piece with mandolin and percussion, but tonight just Kate Saunders (fiddle and vocals) and Simon Stafford (guitar and vocals). Hailing from the gently rolling hills and river valleys of Oxfordshire, they play an infectious blend of the familiar and obscure: traditional and contemporary acoustic music and Americana played with passion and energy.

Francis Pugh and the Whisky Singers are a six-piece band from Oxford, UK, playing a mixture of bluegrass, Americana and roots music. They blend acoustic guitar, fiddle, banjo and cornet with five-part vocal harmonies to produce their raw, energetic sound.

Jonny & The Jivetones

are a cracking live band with rave reviews for their extensive and varied repertoire featuring authentic and exciting versions of your favourites by Chuck & Buddy, Elvis & Eddie, Jerry Lee & Little Richard, Big Joe & the Big O, The Beatles, The Stones, The Small Faces, The Animals, The Searchers & many, many more. Time for a bop!
