

Morning Walk

On broad, flat, damp mud
Sharp tangled arrows point back,
Back, in goose time,
To the shrinking river.
Their 'normal' resumes.
We are still walking
Alone.

Sheila Cameron